

KS3 Curriculum journey: What do students learn in History lessons at Broughton High School?

Each year has one overarching enquiry question which individual units feed into. These are outlined below.

Year 7	Overarching enquiry question: What do we know about power, knowledge and society in the Medieval world?
	How did the Anglo Saxons shape England?	Did the Normans bring a “truckload of trouble” to England in 1066?	How did the Silk Roads connect the Medieval world?	What can we learn about medieval Mali from the life of Mansa Musa?	What really mattered to medieval people?	How did monarchs challenge the power of the Church?	Was Elizabeth I’s reign really a Golden Age?
Year 8	Overarching enquiry question: How did the Age of Revolutions affect peoples’ lives before 1900?
	Why did the English Civil War turn England upside down?	Did the French Revolution stick to its principles?	How did British imperialism affect India?	What can the Benin Bronzes tell us about West African kingdoms?	What was Britain’s role in the Transatlantic trade?	How did the Industrial Revolution shape life in Britain?	How did the campaign for universal suffrage gain momentum?
Year 9	Overarching enquiry question: How have politics, conflict and ideologies affected the Twentieth Century world?
	Why did Europe go to war in 1914?	What was the impact of the First World War?	What impact did dictators have on people’s lives?	Why did European peace crumble in 1939?	How and why did the Holocaust happen?	How was Germany affected by Cold War tensions?

The Year 7 History Curriculum.

Pupils come to Broughton from a variety of different feeder primary schools and although we expect them to have studied the National Curriculum, there will inevitably be some variation in terms of topics covered. Therefore it is important that we introduce students to core substantive concepts they will need to access History throughout KS3 and 4, as well as developing pupils' disciplinary knowledge.

Although substantive concepts such as monarchy, parliament and peasantry will have been covered in KS2, pupils will have the opportunity to revisit these and other key concepts in different contexts throughout the year to deepen their understanding.

The Year 8 History Curriculum.

In year 8 pupils study a series of revolutions during the early modern period, both political, economic and social. There are many links between these units and pupils will explore these links to deepen their understanding of how Europe rose to prominence and how connected the world was becoming during this period. For example, the relationship between Benin's resistance to slavery, trade in sugar and cotton and the impact on Lancashire's industrialisation.

Whilst we do not revisit this content explicitly in KS4, it helps prepare pupils for the Health and the People thematic study by introducing them to how society and knowledge was changing after the Medieval period.

Overarching enquiry question: How did the Age of Revolutions affect peoples' lives before 1900?
Why did the English Civil war turn The importance of the Divine Right of Kings. Reasons for deteriorating relationship between monarch and Parliament. The impact of the conflict in the North West. KS4 History

At GCSE, pupils follow the AQA specification. We cover the units detailed below. None of these units are explicitly covered at KS3, but the KS3 curriculum has been designed to ensure pupils have the contextual knowledge required to access the GCSE course. The exception to this is Norman England where pupils have been given an overview in Year 7 of key events, however they explore these in greater detail in Year 11 with the inclusion of new knowledge of Norman monasticism and changes to the church.

A more detailed overview of the specification and content can be found here: AQA | GCSE | History | Specification at a glance
